WANTS TO SELL TITLE MONTGOMERY SYSTEM

(Special to The Times-Distratch.)

NEW YORK, March 24.—The Evening Post yesterday afternoon printed a letter received from a correspondent in Paris, offering to sell on good terms the title of duke. The correspondent is the agent for the impecunious nobleman. He believes some rich American will be glad to purchase the distinction, and he Hinks it would greatly aid the sen of such a man in the matrimonial market.

Following is the letter:

"Sir.—A person told me to sell for his account a title of duke. Numerous purchasers presented themselves. The barkain was to be made on very good terms. I received an order from the seller, telling me, for motives that I respect, to sell the title only in a forekin land.

"I immediately thought of you, believing that among your numerous readers there will be some rich gentleman desiring to ennoble himself and his family, especially his son, if he has any, in this way enabling the son to contract a brilliant marriage and have a high position. If you find, sir, the person of whom I am speaking, put me into relation with him, or, if you prefer to make bargain yourself, let me know. But, at the same time, keep the greatest discretion.

"In ease that you do not want to take advantage of this yourself, I would be obliged to you if you would tell me some one I can address. Receive, sir, my most sincere sulutations.

On the way the dog bit McDaniels's cheek. A week later the dog showed symptoms of rabies and was killed. Last Sunday McDaniels was affected, and grew rapidly worse.

On Tuesday it required six men to tie him in his bed, so violent were his convuisions. He barked like a dog and rothed at the mouth. Yesterday his sufferings were relieved by death.
